Profile

Bold and analytical, he brings to the table a balanced mix of creativity and determination. He is enterprising, fresh with new ideas. He is willing to take risks but at the same time never compromising the quality of his work. He is self-taught in the use of aerosol paint as his primary medium of communication before his formal arts education in Lasalle College of the Arts with a Ba(Hons) in Fine Arts. The street is his inspirational gallery as art to him is a way of a communicable visual experience that relates to its surroundings and as a form of comment or a critique of the present state. He is also self-reliant; where he lacks in knowledge, he is able to make up with his willingness to learn and accept new ideas.

Personal Interests

Loves reading and writing, enjoys being in the outdoors. Has a keen interest in photography, filmmaking, music making, sculptures and anything related to the arts, history, literature and socio-politics. He also loves imparting his experiences to his peers. Having worked in youth events involving the dissemination of the healthier aspects of graffiti art for the past decade and other forms of arts – related endeavours, he has developed an interest in art critique and various archival techniques.
